+ In this course, you will...
  + explore & examine the historical context of Shakespeare’s life and works
  + acquire & utilize an understanding of Shakespearean textual production and reproduction
  + master & apply basic terms and techniques of Shakespearean criticism
  + consider & articulate your views on the variety and impact of Shakespearean performance, both historically and in contemporary English culture

Texts & Materials
+ course packet  + notebook & writing instrument  + playtexts (TBA)

Assignments & Requirements
+ Participation – As this is an experience-based course, students’ participation & positive contribution are essential to successful completion of the class & an enjoyable/productive period in London. Prompt attendance, demonstrably positive attitude, proper decorum, & material preparedness for all scheduled events is mandatory. YOUR OVERALL COURSE GRADE WILL DROP ONE FULL LETTER FOR EACH SCHEDULED CLASS PERIOD YOU MISS ALL OR PART OF (i.e. tardiness, after a 5 minute “grace period,” will count as a full missed class) REGARDLESS OF EXCUSE. The attendance policy is not negotiable. Scheduled events are listed in this course packet & will be announced in class—be sure to note ANNOUNCED changes in class, which will serve as the official class start time. STUDENTS are responsible for planning travel times accordingly (travel delays/poor directions will not mitigate tardiness or absence. Standards for attitude, decorum, & preparedness are outlined below under “Policies & Practices” & like attendance, WILL affect students’ OVERALL course grade as well as the Participation element. Students in severe or repeated violation of attitude/decorum/preparedness policies will be given verbal warning prior to grade deductions if deductions are warranted. Standards for attendance/attitude/decorum/preparedness apply to all class events including:
  + Content Lectures – Students will attend a series of lectures delivered by the course professor to contextualize class experiences. PowerPoint lectures will serve as the basis for class discussion & the final exam. Students are expected to attentively take notes.
  + Live Performances – Students will attend several productions throughout the course of the term. Performances will serve as the basis for discussions & written responses. Students will be asked to complete worksheets/address written prompts as after performances are attended.
  + Site Tours – The class will visit & tour several sites & areas important to theatre history. Tours will serve as the basis for discussions & written responses. Students will be asked to complete worksheets & address written prompts as after sites are visited.
  + Professional Workshops – Invited guest speakers, including theatre professionals & distinguished scholars, will lecture in their field of expertise. Guests may also conduct question-&-answer sessions &/or practical workshops. Students are expected to participate fully in all workshop activities by taking notes &/or taking part.
  + Response Journal – Students will develop & demonstrate their knowledge of theatre terminology, history, critical technique, & contextual issues via written considerations of class readings & participatory events. Responses will subsequently form the basis for in-class discussions. Written response notebooks (& any notes from subsequent discussion) will be submitted for grading at the end of specified class periods.
  + Play Report – Students will purchase an edition of a play for examination & evaluation. Each student will prepare a written report on their playtext & a short presentation that will form part of an in-class discussion.
  + Review Report – Students will read reviews of one of the performances attended by the class to compare & contrast the perspectives of different reviewers. Each student will prepare a written report on their assigned reviews & a short presentation that will form part of an in-class discussion.
  + Class Discussion – Graduate students will prepare & lead class discussions in consultation with the professor. Discussion leadership will require advance preparation of written materials & discussion questions related to class material & live performances.
  + Research Project – Upon return from the UK, students will complete a sourced research project relating to their London experience. Topics will be discussed with & approved by the professor prior to departure from London. The research project will be completed in stages, including preliminary bibliography,outline, rough draft, & final draft. The research paper & bibliography must conform to MLA writing & citation style (7th edition – 2009 update). Students who FAIL TO SUBMIT a research project WILL FAIL ALL SIX HOURS of credit for the course, without exception.
  + Final Exam – Students will complete one comprehensive exam on the final day of the term in London. The exam may include multiple choice, matching, short answer, identification, &/or essay components. Essay questions will be announced in advance & a study session will result in a study guide.
Evaluation & Grading – 1000 points possible (+900 = A, +800 = B, +700 = C, +600 = D)

*PLEASE note automatic penalties applied to overall class grade for failing to fulfill these assignments.

Policies & Practices

1. Syllabus Contract – This syllabus constitutes an agreement between the student & the professor. Your continued enrollment in this course constitutes your agreement to abide by the terms of this syllabus. If changes must be made to the schedule or to any aspect of this syllabus, all students will be notified as soon as possible & the professor will explain reasons for the changes. Changes will apply to all students.

2. Course Content – Courses on theatre deal with works of dramatic literature on the page & on the stage. Sometimes the situations, actions, & language of dramatic works can be challenging & make explicit reference to sensitive subjects including sexuality, ethnicity, religion, politics, & socio-economic class. You should expect that we will enter into debates in this class–& that those debates will take the form of respectful, academic discussions in which all views will be respected & all debaters will be protected. If you have any questions or concerns about your participation or the tenor of these debates, please contact your professor.

3. Late Work – Assignments are due at the beginning of class & must be submitted via hardcopy (no email submissions). Incomplete work is considered late work & will not be considered as submitted work until the assignment is complete. Assignments will lose one full letter grade each day they are late, regardless of excuse. Assignments submitted more than one week late will not be accepted.

4. Make-Up Work – Late or unsubmitted work can be made up only in the case of properly documented emergencies which have been approved by both the course professor & the director of the British Studies Program. Please contact the professor in case of emergency.

5. Participation Standards
   - Attitude – As a student in this course, your approach to course experiences impacts not only your learning but also the learning environment & outcome for your fellow students. An open mind & full engagement with all course events is required. Tiredness, disinterest, unpreparedness, dislike, or personal issues within or outside of class will not constitute excuses for an indifferent or a poor attitude, particularly in the case of interactions with guests or off-site visits. A professional attitude towards activities & guests is essential to a successful outcome in class. Failure to project a professional attitude at least & an enthusiastic attitude at best will prove detrimental to your overall grade & may be grounds for dismissal from class &/or the British Studies Program.
   - Decorum – As a student in this course, you are a representative of your professor, the program & its administrators, your university, & your country. In all class meetings (including group travel to & from events), proper behavior & attire are essential. Expectations for each individual event will be outlined verbally, & in detail, prior to each event. Students are expected to turn off cell phones/MP3 players in class & computers may be used for class work only. Respectful interactions with your instructor, class guests, & fellow students—in & outside of class, including dorm facilities—are also essential to a successful outcome in class. Students are expected to refrain from excessive alcohol consumption before & during class meetings, including performance. Failure to adhere to these expectations will prove detrimental to your overall grade & may be grounds for dismissal from the class &/or the British Studies Program.
   - Preparedness – As a student in this course, your punctuality & preparation impacts the learning environment & outcome for your fellow students. Timely arrival for all scheduled activities & compliance with assigned preparations (including being properly attired, being ably equipped to travel, & coming ready with food &/or money to procure food on outings) are essential for positive outcomes. Failure to adhere to announced expectations will prove detrimental to your overall grade & repeated infractions may be grounds for dismissal from the class &/or the British Studies Program.

6. Student Revisions – Students may revise any work completed outside of class (with the exception of the Research Project) provided that the original submission is submitted on time & complete by its original due date. If students wish to revise, they must complete a revision worksheet & discuss the proposed revision with the professor prior to submitting the revised work. Details of revision procedures are contained within this course packet.

7. Grade Challenges – Any concerns regarding grades or grading (including Participation penalties) must be submitted in writing no later than one week after the assignment has been returned to the student or the penalty has accrued. Concerns must be clearly stated with justifications as to the source of the concern. If disputes remain unresolved following a meeting with the professor, the student will be given an opportunity to address concerns with the director of the British Studies Program.

8. Incomplete Grades – Incompletes will only be given in the case of emergencies documented & approved by both the course professor & the director of the British Studies Program. Please contact the professor in case of an emergency.

9. Academic Misconduct – Cheating in all forms is strictly prohibited. All parties involved in the submission of plagiarized or copied work will be found equally guilty of academic misconduct under all circumstances, be they intended or unintended. It is the responsibility of the student to know, understand, & comply with the policies on cheating & plagiarism. Penalties for cheating & plagiarism include failing the assignment, failing the course, &/or expulsion from the British Studies Program.
