Proposed Course: German 2133 Intermediate German
Credit Hours: 3 hours
Proposed by: Department of Foreign Languages
Date: 10 February 2017

Please document how the proposed course meets each of the following requirements. (You may provide a written explanation or copy and paste the appropriate information from the syllabus.)

1. Content: The language teaching community agrees that learning language and culture are inextricably connected. Thus, this course focuses on developing students’ German-language bilingual/bicultural proficiency through modes of communication that reflect real life communication in the varied cultures of the German-speaking world. By employing interpersonal, interpretive and presentational communicative modes in the target language, students will explore the ideas, values, beliefs and other cultural aspects of German-speaking peoples across the world and how these aspects work together to affect human experience.

Examples of specific content areas students may explore:

- An overview of German history since 1945
- Life in the German Democratic Republic and with the Berlin Wall
- Special focus on “wall refugees” and current refugees from Syria
- The Fall of the Berlin Wall and Reunification

2. Skills: This course involves the development of specific grammar, vocabulary and idiomatic usage in the context of the varied cultures of the German-speaking world for the purpose of exploring ideas that foster aesthetic and intellectual creation in order that students may understand the human condition across cultures. The following are examples of student-centered learning activities and experiences that foster the development of required language skills and simultaneously foster aesthetic and intellectual creation and cross-culture understanding. The following are based on examples from Partnership for 21st Century Skills, www.P21.org (published 03/11), as well as the American Council on the Teaching of Foreign Language (ACTFL) World Readiness Standards (2015):

Outcomes: Students will develop specific grammar, vocabulary and idiomatic usage in the context of the varied cultures of the German-speaking world, and by the end of the first semester of the second-year study, students will be able to:

- Describe and illustrate aspects of the cultures of German-speaking countries and make comparisons between these cultures and their own culture(s) using intermediate-level linguistic structures and vocabulary in the target language.

- Evaluate their own values, behaviors and worldviews on the socio-cultural topics presented and compare these to those of German-speakers.

- Speaking skills (ACTFL Intermediate Mid level): able to handle successfully a variety of uncomplicated communicative tasks in straightforward social situations. These include personal information related to self, family, home, daily activities, interests and personal preferences, as well as physical and social needs, such as food, shopping, travel, and lodging. Intermediate Mid speakers are able to express personal meaning by creating with the language, in part by combining and recombinig known elements and conversational input to produce responses typically consisting of sentences and strings of sentences. Their speech may contain pauses, reformulations, and self-corrections as they search for adequate vocabulary and appropriate language forms to express themselves. In spite of the limitations in their vocabulary and/or pronunciation and/or grammar and/or syntax, Intermediate Mid speakers are generally understood by sympathetic interlocutors accustomed to dealing with non-natives.

- Writing skills (ACTFL Intermediate Mid level): able to meet a number of practical writing needs. They can write short, simple communications, compositions, and requests for information in loosely connected texts about personal preferences, daily routines, common events, and other topics of interest. The writing style closely resembles oral discourse, and can be understood readily by natives used to the writing of non-natives.

- Listening skills (ACTFL Intermediate High level): able to understand, with ease and confidence, simple sentence-length speech in basic personal and social contexts. They can derive substantial meaning from some connected texts typically understood by Advanced-level listeners although there often will be gaps in understanding due to a limited knowledge of the vocabulary and structures of the spoken language.

- Reading skills (ACTFL Intermediate Mid level): able to understand conventional narrative and descriptive texts with a clear underlying structure.

3. Assessment of Core Objectives: The core objectives for the Language, Philosophy and Culture Foundational Component Area are addressed in this course according to the following descriptions. Students will demonstrate their mastery of the core objectives in a Personal Reflection Essay/Project on a cultural topic(s) of their choosing and/or a cultural topic(s) presented by the instructor. A global assessment rubric will be used for measuring students’ mastery of the core objectives according to the following:

- Core Objective 1: Critical Thinking Skills: Students will demonstrate creative thinking, innovation, inquiry and analysis, evaluation and synthesis of information.

- Core Objective 2: Communication Skills: Students will demonstrate effective development, interpretation and expression of ideas through written, oral and/or visual communication.
• Core Objective 3: Personal Responsibility: Students will demonstrate the ability to connect choices, actions and consequences to ethical decision making.

• Core Objective 4: Social Responsibility: Students will demonstrate intercultural competence, knowledge of civic responsibility and the ability to engage effectively in regional, national and global communities.

COURSE CONTENT AND METHODOLOGY
The language teaching community agrees that learning language and culture are inextricably connected. Thus, this course focuses on developing students’ German-language proficiency through modes of communication that reflect real life communication in the varied cultures of the German-speaking world. By employing interpersonal, interpretive and presentational communicative modes in German, students will explore the ideas, values, beliefs and other cultural aspects in German-speaking countries and how these aspects work together to affect human experience.

COURSE GOALS:
The theme of the course is the German Democratic Republic and the Berlin Wall. We will briefly review material from the previous semester (chapters 5-8), cover the grammar of chapters 9-11 of the textbook, and work through one feature-length film in German. This is a four-skills language course, in which you will develop listening, speaking, reading, and writing skills in German for the purpose of exploring ideas that foster aesthetic and intellectual creation in order that students may understand the human condition across cultures. By the completion of this course, students who have attended classes regularly and successfully completed all listening, written, lab, and computer assignments, as well as ALL exams (with a minimum grade of B-) should be able to:

(a) Provide detailed information about themselves, their families, interests, likes and dislikes, as well as daily activities in German;
(b) Understand and participate in conversations on a variety of everyday topics and specific issues (e.g. asking for and giving directions, traveling, career opportunities, job applications, etc.);
(c) Read and comprehend edited texts (e.g. travelogues, short stories, and process important information from a variety of “authentic” texts [e.g. films, train schedules, job descriptions etc.]);
(d) Fill in forms requesting general information, as well as write letters, notes, postcards, or messages providing simple information;
(e) Use and understand a range of essential vocabulary words and grammatical structures related to everyday life activities and specific situations, such as traveling and the job market;
(f) Pronounce German well enough to be comprehensible to a native German speaker;
(g) Describe and illustrate aspects of the cultures of German-speaking countries and make comparisons between these cultures and his/her own culture using basic linguistic structures and vocabulary in the target language;
(h) Evaluate his/her own values, behaviors and worldviews on the socio-cultural topics presented and compare these to those of German-speakers

Please note: Both the textbook and the workbook were already used in 1134 and 1234 German. There is no additional material.

COURSE REQUIREMENTS:

REGULAR ATTENDANCE AND ACTIVE PARTICIPATION in class, written assignments, short quizzes, chapter tests, compositions, presentation, and a comprehensive written two-hour final exam.

Your course grade is based upon the following:

- Classwork (attendance, participation) 15%
- Homework (WB, www, handouts) 10%
- Quizzes 15% - (weakest quiz doesn’t count)
- Chapter Tests 25%
- Essays 15%
- Presentation 5% - (Core Course Assessment)
- Comprehensive Final Exam 15%

Class Participation and Attendance
I will take attendance every day. Students are required to be in class for the entire 75-minute period. Students may be counted absent if arriving more than 10 minutes late or leaving class early. This syllabus serves as notice that a student may be dropped from the class without further notification if absent more than five times. Please note that if a student decides to drop the course, he/she must follow university procedure for dropping a course in order to receive a “W.”

Absences due to official university functions or documented illness will be dealt with on an individual basis and should be discussed with the instructor outside of class time. There are no “excused absences” from regular class periods. If a student misses an exam, he/she must present documented proof of illness or university activity to the instructor before a make-up exam will be allowed.

Students will be expected to come to class prepared to participate actively in all discussions and activities. Participation grades will be given daily on a 0-10 scale based on both QUALITY and QUANTITY of your contributions, according to the following criteria:

0 = absent
6 = absolute minimal (present, but doesn’t contribute)
7 = minimal (only contributes after being called on)
8 = average participation (contributes once)
9 = good participation (contributes twice)
10 = outstanding participation (contributes three times or more)
Students may not use cell phones or smart phones during class time. I may tell students explicitly to use their phones (e.g. for a group activity), but otherwise, cell phones and smart phones need to be silenced and off the desk during the entire class.

Daily Homework

Unless stated otherwise for some assignments, written homework is always due next class. Homework for each day is listed on the bi-weekly homework sheets, which are posted on D2L. I will not explicitly mention the individual homework assignments during class. It is your responsibility to check D2L every day and find the corresponding assignment. It is important to do your homework EVERY DAY, because the assignments are specifically designed to practice what has been covered during class and to prepare you for the next day of class. I will only accept the submission of assignments on the days they are due (which is usually the next day of class).

Grading of homework: Unlike your essays, you will not receive a letter grade, but are rather graded based on a + / √ / - / 0-scale. (+/plus = good; √ / check = satisfactory; -/ minus = marginal/missing parts/lack of self-correction; 0 / zero = not handed in).

NOTE: This is a three-credit course. If you want to pass it successfully, be prepared to do a MINIMUM of three hours of homework a week.

Any assignment for which an answer key is provided (Workbook) has to be self-corrected, using a different color (except red) BEFORE turning it in.

EXTRA CREDIT: Students may receive a BONUS of up to 10 percentage points on the FINAL EXAM. The amount of bonus points earned depends on the percentage of homework assignments completed. A bonus percentage point is earned for each 10% of total homework assignments completed. Thus, if 100% of homework assignments are completed, the student earns 10 percentage points. If only 90% of homework assignments are completed, the student earns 9 percentage points, and so on. In order to qualify for this bonus, the student MUST TURN IN A MINIMUM OF 50% OF ALL HOMEWORK ASSIGNMENTS. Note that this assures you of at least 5 bonus percentage points on the final exam. This bonus will be penalized by unexcused absences; each unexcused absence beyond the third will reduce the maximum earnable bonus percentage points by 1. Thus, a student with 4 absences can earn only 9 bonus percentage points, even if 100% of the homework assignments are completed.

Essays

You will write three essays in the German language during the course of the semester. Students are expected to write a coherent text (of about 150 words) on the assigned topic. The purpose of this activity is to strengthen your ability to use German to communicate on a range of everyday topics. There is no need for extensive use of dictionaries to find new vocabulary words. Compositions will be graded on:
- quality and quantity of content provided
- appropriate use of vocabulary
- grammatical accuracy
- spelling
- style (e.g. use of subordinate clauses/changing word order, inclusion of suitable new vocabulary)

Double-space and entitle your essay, and put your name, class section, and date (dd.mm.yyyy) at the top. You need to print out your essay and bring it to class or to my office the day it is due. Do not send it to me via e-mail unless I explicitly tell you to do so. Late essay will not be accepted and calculated as 0.

The essays can be corrected for a grade improvement of up to 10% within one week. Writing and re-writing essays provides excellent language practice and gives you the opportunity to use the language you are learning to convey your own thoughts and ideas.

Quizzes
There will be weekly quizzes, in which you will show how you have mastered the material of the previous days. Quizzes may NOT be made up unless students can provide appropriate documentation for their absences. At the end of the term, the lowest quiz grade will be dropped.

Chapter Tests
There will be three chapter tests that will be administered on the dates announced. They will cover the material in individual chapters and will build upon previously covered material. Check the Test Schedule on D2L.

NOTE: No chapter tests will be made up without a valid medical excuse. You must e-mail or call me BEFORE the exam is administered. If you miss a quiz or test, and are not properly excused, your grade is calculated as 0.

ALSO NOTE: Tests may be corrected within one week for a final 5% improvement of the grade. This can only be achieved if ALL errors have been corrected. The corrections have to be written on a separate sheet of paper, and each error needs to be corrected, using a different color, within a complete sentence.

Presentation/Core course objectives (assessment)
The core objectives for the Language, Philosophy and Culture Foundational Component Area are addressed in this course according to the following descriptions. Every student will present on a self-chosen topic related to German culture. The presentation will be partially in German and will last approximately 5 minutes. Students need to discuss the topic and approach (PowerPoint, poster or video) with me at least one month in advance. Presentations will be held during the last week of the semester. A global assessment rubric will be used for measuring students’ mastery of the core objectives according to the following:

- Critical Thinking Skills: Students will demonstrate creative thinking, innovation, inquiry and analysis, evaluation and synthesis of information.
- Communication Skills: Students will demonstrate effective development, interpretation and expression of ideas through written, oral and/or visual communication.
- Personal Responsibility: Students will demonstrate the ability to connect choices, actions and consequences to ethical decision making.
- Social Responsibility: Students will demonstrate intercultural competence, knowledge of civic responsibility and the ability to engage effectively in regional, national and global communities

Final Written Exam
A 2-hour comprehensive final exam that covers the material of the whole semester. Time and location TBA.

ACADEMIC INTEGRITY
"As an MSU Student, I pledge not to lie, cheat, steal, or help anyone else do so.
As students at MSU, we recognize that any great society must be composed of empowered, responsible citizens. We also recognize universities play an important role in helping mold these responsible citizens. We believe students themselves play an important part in developing responsible citizenship by maintaining a community where integrity and honorable character are the norm, not the exception. Thus, We, the Students of Midwestern State University, resolve to uphold the honor of the University by affirming our commitment to complete academic honesty. We resolve not only to be honest but also to hold our peers accountable for complete honesty in all university matters. We consider it dishonest to ask for, give, or receive help in examinations or quizzes, to use any unauthorized material in examinations, or to present, as one's own, work or ideas which are not entirely one's own. We recognize that any instructor has the right to expect that all student work is honest, original work. We accept and acknowledge that responsibility for lying, cheating, stealing, plagiarism, and other forms of academic dishonesty fundamentally rests within each individual student. We expect of ourselves academic integrity, personal professionalism, and ethical character. We appreciate steps taken by University officials to protect the honor of the University against any who would disgrace the MSU student body by violating the spirit of this creed."
Written and adopted by the 2002-2003 MSU Student Senate.
STUDENTS WITH DISABILITIES
The Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA) is a federal anti-discrimination statute that provides comprehensive civil rights protection for persons with disabilities. Among other things, this legislation requires that all students with disabilities be guaranteed a learning environment that provides for reasonable accommodation of their disabilities. If you believe you have a disability requiring an accommodation, please contact the Disability Support Services in Room 168 of the Clark Student Center, 397-4140.

THE GERMAN PROGRAM’S APPROACH TO LANGUAGE LEARNING
We will speak German for most of the time. This includes student-professor interaction AND talking among yourselves. You will only learn German by hearing and speaking it. Here are some useful German words and phrases; some of them you probably remember:

E-MAIL CORRESPONDENCE
While I usually respond rather quickly to students’ e-mails during weekdays, please allow 24 hours for a reply. In each initial e-mail, tell me about the nature of your inquiry, and include your name and class.

TO GET AS MUCH AS POSSIBLE OUT OF EVERY CLASS, I EXPECT YOU TO:

ATTEND CLASS DAILY AND BE “PÜNKTLICH” (ON TIME). German 2133 moves very quickly and you cannot really afford to miss class. If you are absent or come late, you will find yourself getting behind and being unable to follow and participate in class activities. You might miss important information, e.g. a quiz or explanation of a homework assignment.

DO YOUR HOMEWORK DAILY. This means completing all assigned homework BEFORE you come to class. This pre-class preparation, which may take up to 1 ½ hours per class session, is essential as a basis for understanding what your instructor will do IN CLASS. If you absolutely have to miss class, make sure you find out from the bi-weekly syllabus (on D2L) or from a fellow student what the assignments were. All written assignments need to be turned in the day they are due (which is usually the next class).

REGULARLY LISTEN TO THE AUDIO PROGRAM ONLINE THAT ACCOMPANIES THE TEXTBOOK. Developing the ability to understand spoken German will require you to “train your ears.” Listen to the website audios as often as you can. I strongly recommend working with the Lab Manual, which will improve your listening-comprehension skills significantly.

USE MY OFFICE HOURS. While you should definitely see me if you have a problem, I suggest that you also visit me if you don’t. Tell me how things are going, and what your future plans are. I would also be happy to talk to you about study abroad opportunities in a German-speaking country or about working on a research project with you. If you are not free during my office hours, I will schedule an appointment with you.

PARTICIPATE ACTIVELY IN ALL CLASS ACTIVITIES. I employ lots of pictures, real objects, simple games, small group and other activities that are fun and will make you connect with your Kommilitonen (fellow students). Such activities will make it easier for you to learn and remember new vocabulary and grammatical structures. So stay on task and do not switch to English during these activities. They provide you with opportunities to speak German and use the language in realistic situations.

CO-CURRICULAR ACTIVITIES:
- German Club: Attend the weekly German “Stammtisch” (regulars’ table) where you can meet other German learners and enthusiasts. You are not expected to speak or understand German. Become a Mitglied (member) of a coole Gruppe and help organize tolle Aktionen, such as the regular film screenings, and it occasionally prepares German food. Time and location for the “Stammtisch” TBA. Check D2L.
- German film screenings: The German Club shows German films at least once a month. All of these screenings are with English subtitles, and admission is free. There will be an opportunity to gain extra credit by attending these screenings. Very often, the German Club offers free German food. Pay attention to announcements in class and on D2L.
- The Arts & Literatures Society organizes events, such as field trips to museums, poetry slams and workshops.

  And many more…

RESEARCH AND CREATIVE OPPORTUNITIES AT MSU.
Enhancing Undergraduate Research and Creative Activities (EURECA) is a program that provides opportunities for undergraduate students to engage in high-quality research and creative activities with faculty. EURECA provides incentives and funding through a system that supports faculty and students in a cooperative research process. For more information contact the Office of Undergraduate Research, (940) 397-6275 or eureca@mwsu.edu. Information and resources are available at www.mwsu.edu/eureca

Campus Carry
Senate Bill 11 passed by the 84th Texas Legislature allows licensed handgun holders to carry concealed handguns on campus, effective August 1, 2016. Areas excluded from concealed carry are appropriately marked, in accordance with state law. For more information regarding campus carry, please refer to the University’s webpage at https://mwsu.edu/campus-carry/rules-policies.
