ALHAMBRA PALACE, GRANADA
¡HOLA! Study in Granada, the historic capital of the southern Spanish province of the same name, located in the region of Andalusia. Geographic and scenic diversity characterize this region with mountains, beaches, fertile plains, deserts, and ancient cities.

The old city of Granada, shaped by the hills, brims with steep, narrow streets, marvelous landscapes, and historic districts such as the Albaicín, home of the Alhambra palace and fortress complex. The large streets of Gran Vía de Colon and Calle de los Reyes Católicos crisscross the modern part of the city where the famous Catedral de Granada has stood since the sixteenth century. Today, Granada is a UNESCO World Heritage Site, along with the Generalife and the Albaicín.
